Why exhibit?

Connect with your target audience at the leading dermatology and venereology congresses in the Nordic region. NCDV 2028 is expected to bring together 500–700 physicians, nurses and other healthcare professionals from across the Nordic countries and beyond.

Combining a high-quality scientific programme with Oslo's appeal as an accessible and attractive destination, NCDV 2028 provides an excellent platform to strengthen your visibility, build valuable connections and engage with the Nordic dermatology community.

The industry exhibition will be strategically located adjacent to the scientific session rooms. To maximise traffic through the exhibition area, all coffee breaks and lunches will be served among the exhibition stands, creating valuable opportunities for networking, product showcasing and interaction with delegates.

- Meet and engage directly with physicians, nurses and other healthcare professionals working in dermatology and venereology.
- Increase awareness of your company, products and services through a strong on-site presence.
- Reach a highly relevant Nordic audience and generate valuable new business opportunities.

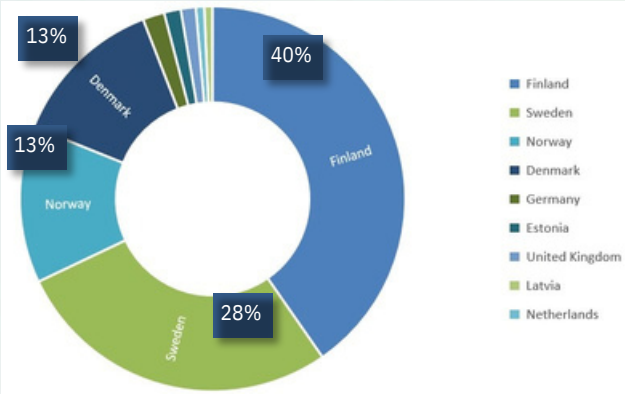

Meet your target audience

At the previous NCDV congress, held in Helsinki in 2025, more than 750 participants from 26 countries participated, demonstrating the congress's strong international reach.
The audience consists primarily of dermatologists, physicians, PhD students and researchers, creating a highly relevant environment for knowledge sharing, networking and industry engagement.
